PROHIBITION AGENT KILLED IN IOWA DUEL

Liquor Runner Sought For Shooting Down Federal Agent

BULLETIN
Creston, Iowa, June 23 —(AP)—Claude Ridout, sought by authorities for the killing of Federal Prohibition Agent Harry Elliott at Oskaloosa yesterday, committed suicide when discovered by officers in a field at 1 P. M. today.

BULLETIN
Creston, Iowa, June 23 —(AP)—County officials said today that Claude Ridout, suspected killer of Prohibition Agent Harry Elliott at Oskaloosa yesterday, was ready to give himself up.

Mrs. Maude Lowden, a sister of Ridout, came to the Sheriff's office this morning and conferred with Sheriff Walter Miller. She is said to have told the Sheriff that her brother was ready to surrender.

Miller and Mrs. Lowden left for an unannounced destination presumably to pick up Ridout.

Mrs. Ridout, suspected of having been with her husband when the shooting occurred, was arrested at her home about 1 A. M. today. She had driven into Creston about 40 minutes before the auto presumably used in the killing.

She did not reveal when she had last seen her husband and made no statements as to her whereabouts late yesterday afternoon at the time when agents Elliott and A. A. Murphy engaged in the fatal duel with the suspected liquor runner near Oskaloosa.

SEEK LIQUOR RUNNER

Oskaloosa, Ia., June 23 —(AP)—Peace officers of central Iowa today combined in a vigorous search for a liquor runner suspect who killed one federal prohibition agent and wounded another.

The dead man is Harry Elliott of Des Moines, who was shot full in the face with a shotgun as he attempted to arrest the suspect.

The wounded man is A. A. Murphy of Spencer, special employee of the federal liquor bureau. He was shot in the head, neck, and shoulders. Hospital attendants say he will recover.

Murphy, who related the story of the shooting to Mahaska county Sheriff Frank Hook as he lay on the operating table, said the suspect was Claude Ridout of Creston.

Shot After Chase
The shooting occurred after a five mile chase from the outskirts of Oskaloosa when the two operatives recognized the coupe in which the suspect and his wife were traveling.

As the federal men's car drew near, Elliott leaped from the machine, Murphy said. As Elliott approached the suspect's car, the driver raised a shotgun over the edge of the door and fired directly in Elliott's face.

"It all happened light lightning," Murphy told. "The fellow fired into our car wounding me, but I scrambled out and fought him."

"Somehow I knocked his gun out of his hand but he grabbed it up again and ran back to his car. There the woman either gave him a fully loaded revolver or a new clip for his automatic for he turned shooting again."

Fought In Silence
"I went down. We'd been fighting in silence. Not a one of us had uttered a word. He jumped into his car when he saw me collapse, rapped the gears together and sped west."

Elliott was dead when Murphy and a truck driver who picked up the officers arrived at the hospital.

As police guarded the roads into Des Moines the State Bureau of Criminal Investigation notified county sheriffs in surrounding territory to be on the lookout for the slayer.

Last week the agents had staged a raid at Creston where they met Ridout.

A second death occurred in Oskaloosa yesterday as a result of liquor.

Golden Anniversary of Dixon Post G. A. R. Was Observed on Thursday

Memorial Tree And A Tablet Dedicated By Relief Corps

Thursday, June 29th, marked the fiftieth anniversary of Dixon Post No. 299, G. A. R., and the members of the Woman's Relief Corps, the Auxiliary to the Post, celebrated the event with a banquet in honor of "the boys in blue" and the dedication of a memorial tree and tablet afterward in court house square.

Commander Geo. L. Richardson heads the Dixon Post.

It was a gala day, yet tinged with sadness and the eyes moistened and hearts constricted when the gallant old soldiers were escorted to their seats at the banquet tables at the Nachusa Taverns at 1 o'clock as Mrs. Elmer Rice seated at the piano in lobby near the dining room softly played martial music.

Seven Veterans Present
There are eleven comrades in Dixon Post and seven were in attendance at the festivities yesterday. One hundred seventy-nine were seated at the tables.

Relief Corps members from Savanna, Freeport, Decatur, Sterling, Chicago, Bloomington, Byron, Rock Falls and Amboy, were in attendance. The spacious dining room in the Tavern was crowded and every seat at the many tables was filled. The tables were beautiful and appropriate with red, white and blue flowers forming the centerpiece for each table, delphinium, roses, carnations and red ranunculus being the charming combination.

Three flags were the favors. At the comrades table there were also seated Mrs. Harry Jones, president of the W. R. C., some of her officers and distinguished visiting guests. This table was graced with a lovely birthday cake baked by Miss Mabel Origiesen, granddaughter of a veteran. It was in three tiers crowned with tiny white candles, and the white cake was trimmed in blue and red. The luncheon was delicious and was well served.

Just before the benediction as all were seated, Mrs. Jones made all those present welcome and announced that there was a happy surprise in store for everyone, introducing Mrs. Lee Read, who sang with great expression a delightful song written by her mother, Mrs. Lydia Parks especially for this occasion, the fiftieth anniversary of the Grand Army Post of Dixon. Mrs. Parks is the widow of a soldier.

Experienced Chef Takes Post Here
Hugh Reardon of Minneapolis, Minn., arrived in Dixon Monday and has taken over the entire responsibility of the management of the kitchen at the Hotel Dixon. Mr. Reardon is a chef with more than 30 years of experience and is widely known among hotel organizations. He has seen long service in the hotel Belmont the Waldorf Astoria and New Plaza in New York City and recently has been located in Minneapolis and St. Paul in the hotel hotels of the twin cities. Mr. Reardon had been previously associated with the Barrett's, new owners of the Hotel Dixon. During the week he has brought about many changes in the kitchen at the Hotel Dixon, adding new equipment, making it modern in every respect.

Helen Wills Wins Place In Finals

London, June 23 —(AP)—Mrs. Helen Wills Moody today won her way to the finals of the London tennis championships at the Queen's Club with a straight set 6-2, 6-3 victory over her fellow American player, Virginia Rice of Boston.

On advice of counsel, The Supreme Court declared: "This plea in its effect was not unconditional, but was made on the assurance to Varcha by his attorney that the death penalty would not be inflicted."

Informed of the verdict, "Iggy" snarled:

"Aw, this only means that they'll give me the chair when I'm tried again."

At the original trial the defense was that Varcha was mentally incompetent. He confessed another shooting, twenty or more robberies and attacks on several women.

Former Ward At Dixon State Hospital Wins Respite From Chair For Murder In Chicago

James ("Iggy") Varcha, of Chicago, 17-year-old who while a fugitive from the Dixon state hospital killed Frank Jordan because he resisted when Varcha attacked his young woman companion, yesterday saw a reversal of the death sentence that was imposed in the Cook County Criminal Court.

The Supreme Court at Springfield reversed the conviction and remanded the case because "it was not properly shown that Varcha was mentally competent to enter it."

The boy entered a plea of guilty

"BILL" ACCUSED BY KIDNAPERS AS THE BRAINS

Mention Of Shadowy Figure Resulted In Laughter

Barnstable, Mass., June 23 —(AP)—Kenneth Buck was subjected to a blistering cross examination in Barnstable Superior Court today as he continued to insist that a shadowy figure "Bill" had directed his activities in the kidnapping of Margaret (Peggy) McMahon.

District Attorney William C. Crossley paced in front of the flushed defendant, following a rapid fire of questions.

Kenneth and a brother, Cyril are on trial charged with kidnapping the 10-year-old girl, who was taken from the Harwich Center grammar school on May 2 to be returned three days later after $50,000 ransom had been paid.

Mr. and Mrs. Neil McMahon, parents of the child, sat in the front of the court room and once when the mention of "Bill" was made they laughed outright.

Kenneth yesterday admitted his complicity in the kidnapping but said he was "hooked" into the case by a man named "Bill" of Hyannis. He said "Bill" told him the father of the child "knew all about it" and that it was not a "real kidnapping." He quoted "Bill" as saying McMahon "needed money."

Outlook for Sunday: Partly cloudy, possibly a shower.

Illinois: Possibly local showers or thunderstorms tonight or Saturday, except fair in extreme south; little change in temperature.

Wisconsin: Mostly unsettled tonight and Saturday, probably local showers and thunderstorms; not so cool in extreme north portion and tonight in southwest; warmer Saturday in southeast.

Iowa: Mostly unsettled tonight and Saturday, local showers and thunderstorms probable; slightly warmer tonight in east-central portion.

SATURDAY: Sun rises at 4:24 A. M.; sets at 7:40.

HIGHEST COURT REVERSED CASE FROM LEE CO.

Involved Refunds Of Excessive Collection of Taxes

A decision of interest to tax payers of Lee County was handed down by the Supreme Court of Illinois yesterday.

In the year 1929 taxes for county purposes exceeding the amount authorized by law were levied and the taxes were extended on the basis of these levies. More than eight hundred of the taxpayers of Lee County filed objections to the illegal taxes which were sustained by County Judge Leech.

Subsequently the Board of Supervisors in orders to protect those who had not filed objections, passed a resolution directing the County Clerk and the County Treasurer to rebate the amount of excess taxes to those taxpayers who had paid their taxes without objection. The validity of such a proceeding was questioned and a friendly proceeding was commenced by L. L. LeFevre, a tax payer to restrain the refunding of the taxes.

Decisions Reversed
Judge Emerson in the Circuit Court of Lee County held that the county board had a right to make the refund. The case was appealed to the Appellate Court for the Second District where Judge Emerson's decision was sustained, but the Supreme Court has reversed the decision of the Circuit Court of Lee County, and of the Appellate Court of the State of Illinois, holding that because the county has no powers except those expressly conferred by statute they could not refund taxes which had been voluntarily paid by taxpayers even though the tax was illegal.

The amount which would have been refunded is estimated to be about $30,000.00. Attorney Clyde Smith of this city, represented the County of Lee, and Attorney H. C. Warner appeared on behalf of the objectors.

Treasurer's Position
County Treasurer Sterling D. Schrock when informed of the court's action today said:

"This office has in no way been implicated in the non-payment of the illegal tax other than by orders of courts in which the contest has been made."

SALES TAX SURVIVES

ADMINISTRATION BEATS ATTEMPTS TO KILL SCHEME

Horner Bill To Face Final Showdown In The House

BULLETIN
Springfield, Ill., June 23 —(AP)—Victorious in a two-day battle during which all opposition amendments were defeated, administration forces today advanced the two per cent sales tax to third reading in the House of Representatives.

Governor Horner was successful in his appeal to send the sales tax bill to third reading, where a vote on final passage will be taken next week during the closing days of the session.

There was no assurance, however, that the floor leaders for the Governor would be able to get a constitutional majority of 77 votes next week. Many representatives who agreed to help send the bill to third reading have announced that they would oppose it there on the decisive test.

Representatives Devine, Democrat; and Allen and Collins, Republicans, of the 35th district voted to strike out the enacting clause of the bill.

The two per cent sales tax survived two severe tests in the House of Representatives today as administration forces defeated an attempt to kill the bill by striking its enacting clause.

The vote was 78 to 59 for the bill. If the motion had carried, the sales bill would have been dead.

Earlier the House voted 72 to 58 against the substitution of a one per cent occupational tax for the entire sales tax proposal, refusing to reconsider a bill taken yesterday by which the bill survived with a one-vote margin.

To Final Showdown
As further amendments were considered, the administration leaders were getting support for their plan to defeat opposition proposals and advance the bill without change to third reading, where it will face the final showdown.

Proposed substitution of a manufacturers' sales tax for the administration's import on retailers was also defeated, 65 to 58. It was the fourteenth amendment proposed by Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill, Downer's Grove Republican.

The amendment would have entirely replaced the sales tax bill, except for the enacting clause.

Speaker Roe announced that no session would be held tomorrow and planned to keep the House in session until the bill was advanced to third reading.

Better Arguments
At the start of prolonged and bitter arguments, Maurice O. Kallahan, Bloomington Republican, made the motion to reconsider the Handy amendment. Little debate preceded the vote, during which many opponents of the bill joined temporarily with administration forces in an effort to send it unchanged to third reading, the final passage stage.

Debate was intense before crowded galleries in the over-heated House chamber.

Clinton Searle, Rock Island Republican, declared merchants in border counties would lose trade to neighboring states under a sales tax and charged that the administration was using great political pressure to pass its bill.

Charges 'Tammany Parade'
Searle said a "Tammany parade" through the prairies of Illinois was being led by Governor Horner, Barnett Hodges of the State Tax Commission and Chairman Ben Lindheimer of the Commerce Commission.

A motion to shut off debate, made by R. J. Branson, Centralia Republican and sales tax opponent, was defeated while Howard Doyle, Decatur Democrat, was speaking for the bill.

From R. V. Libonati, Chicago Republican, Branson drew an admission that Cook county is opposed to an income tax but wants the sales tax to finance unemployment relief.

While debate continued, there was a report that a compromise move was underway whereby the bill would be amended to provide for a two per cent tax on retail sales of goods and services, with a one per cent tax on the sale of real estate.

Faint Radio Signals Heard Along Pacific Coast Revive Hope For Mattern's Safety

Police Wonder If Leaser Knew His Car Was Gone

Chicago, June 23 —(AP)—Police were wondering today if John A. Leaser, Decatur, Ill., had missed his automobile for it was at their headquarters, in fairly good condition, except for a couple of smashed fenders and a bullet hole or two.

The car was recovered by police last night as it smashed against a light pole following a chase that began when its three occupants sped away from officers who attempted to halt them for questioning. Two of them were taken from the wreckage unconscious and police said they suspected them of being members of a gang of window smashers. The third man escaped.

The two captured were identified as John Sanka, 21, and V. Smith, 23, both of Chicago. After being given medical attention at the Bridgeport Hospital they were taken to police headquarters for questioning.

Believing the machine to be stolen police said they traced its ownership to Leaser through the license plates, but said its theft had not been reported.

And three bandits who kidnaped Howard Abbott, 26, in his own automobile left him with only his socks and underwear and miles away from home near St. Charles, Ill., he told police.

Abbott said the trio leaped on to the running board of his car early today and forced him to buy gasoline and oil and then drive them to a lonely spot where they robbed him of all his money, valuables, and clothes, and bound him hand and foot with his suspenders, necktie and torn shirt.

One of the men left him with a torn blanket with the remark that "this will keep you warm."

Finally managing to free himself he wandered to a highway where, with the blanket around him, he vainly attempted to stop passing motorists until a St. Charles policeman happened along.

WHITESIDE, BUR- EAU, OGLE, GET OGLESBY CEMENT

First Shipment From Marquette Mills Go Forward

Springfield, Ill., June 23 —(AP)—State highway officials announced today that cement is being rushed to 45 counties so that work on 110 emergency highway construction projects can be started Monday.

Resumption of work was made possible by Governor Horner's purchase of 2,000,000 barrels of cement at reduced prices after a prolonged dispute with manufacturing companies.

Acting Director Robert Kingery of the Department of Public Works and Chief Highway Engineer Ernst Lieberman said they expected that contractors would have cement by Monday, permitting many men to return to work.

Shipments will be authorized as rapidly as possible, they announced, for other projects which are now under contract. Lieberman said some time will be taken to arrange for all projects, and that emergency contracts were being considered first.

The projects which are to receive cement at first are located in the following counties:

Cook, Lake, Kendall, McHenry, DuPage, Rock Island, Kane, Ogle, Whiteside, Bureau, Sangamon, Logan, Randolph, Gallatin, Hardin, White, Massac, Pope, Union, Johnson, Randolph, Jackson, Alexander, Williamson, Macoupin, Jersey, McLean, Kendall, Will, LaSalle, McQuinn, Franklin, Jefferson, Crawford, Lawrence, Champaign, Macon, Peoria, Henry, Stark, Henderson, Warren, McDonough, Fulton, Knox and Taewell.

Miss Nell Cahill Of Marion Called

Miss Nell Cahill, well known Marion township resident, passed away at her home south of Walton at about midnight, Dixon friends were advised this morning. Funeral services will be held at St. Mary's church, Walton, at 9 o'clock Monday morning, with burial in St. Patrick's cemetery at Amboy.

Seattle, Wash., June 23 —(AP)—Powerful wireless stations of the North Pacific "listened in" today for an explanation of a mysterious call in which the signals for "SOS" and "airplane" were heard yesterday afternoon.

With Jimmy Mattern, missing round-the-world flier, sought off to Siberian coast, the almost unintelligible message, sent in Russian, lent hope that it might bring word about him. It was heard here by Ed Stevens, amateur operator, and by a naval radio operator at Bremerton, who was off duty.

Stevens said it apparently was sent from some Russian ship. He distinguished the call letters RMAZ with whom, he said, the sender was trying to communicate. Station WMAZ is at Vladivostok.

The Naval operator, however, who heard the message on his home set, said it sounded as though it came from WMAZ or RMAP, another Siberian station farther north up the coast.

Signals Faint
Both agreed the signals were so faint and the static so bad they could not decipher the Russian message. They both distinguished the words "airplane" and "SOS".

Naval and Coast Guard stations as well as ships in the Pacific, listened throughout last night for further messages.

Mattern is now missing the ninth day since he took off from Khabarovsk, Siberia for Nome, Alaska, 2,500 miles east.

It was pointed out here that too strong hopes should not be raised by the mysterious message, as the Russian sender might have been merely relaying orders issued by the Soviet government two days ago, to aid in the Mattern search.

BACKER GETS MESSAGE
Chicago, June 23 —(AP)—While believing that Jimmy Mattern is safe in far northeast Siberia, despite his nine-day absence on his world flight, S. J. Sackett, one of his backers, today received a cable from a Khabarovsk aviation company, indicating that no word from the flier had been received there up to last night.

The message, somewhat garbled read: "Don't refuse to inform us if coming back flier Mattern, who fled from Khabarovsk June 14. President Far-Eastern Osoavtarhim U. S. S. R. Grishakov."

This was interpreted by Sackett to mean: "Don't fail to advise us if Mattern gets back home safely," or "Let us know if Mattern is returning to Khabarovsk." Mattern did take off and return to that city once before his final attempt to cross the Bering Sea to Alaska.

Sackett believes that Mattern did not try to follow the Aleutian Islands, but kept to the Russian mainland further north. He said the last word he had from Mattern before his last takeoff said the aviator was carrying a fish hook and a net, feeling that he could feed himself indefinitely if he was forced down in the Arctic.

Body Of Victim Of Attack Found

East St. Louis, Ill., June 23 —(AP)—The body of a woman apparently 40 years old, who had been criminally attacked and beaten to death, was found near the Illinois end of the Municipal bridge today.

The discovery was made by Sam Wallace, a Negro, who called neighbors. The woman was dressed in summer clothing, there was no bullet wound and death apparently was caused by a heavy blow behind the left ear.

A black ribbon around the woman's neck, on which were two small keys, was the only identifying article aside from the clothing. Imprints of a man's shoes were found on the ground beside the body.

Scene Of Lindbergh's Tragedy To Become Welfare Center For Children; Work Is Incorporated

Jersey City, N. J., June 23 —(AP)—The Hopewell home of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, from which the first born son was kidnapped in March, 1932, will become a children's welfare center.

Incorporation papers for "High Field," the corporation which will operate the property, were filed today with County Clerk Gustav Bach.

GARRETT DE F. KINNEY BADLY WOUNDED SELF

Had Previously Been Subpoenaed; Shortage Alleged

BULLETIN
Peoria, Ill., June 23 —(AP)—X-ray photographs of Garrett De F. Kinney's wound today showed the bullet penetrated a portion of his brain and left two severe fractures of the skull where it entered and left.

Kinney was unconscious part of the time. Attendants said the chief danger was infection of the wound, and stated that the outcome could not be predicted for two or three days.

Peoria, Ill., June 23 —(AP)—Garrett De F. Kinney, former State Treasurer and Director of Finance shot himself through the temple early today a few hours after he had been served with a subpoena in connection with an alleged shortage in his accounts.

The bullet entered his right temple, pierced the skull and passed through the forehead over his left eye.

The wound was described at the Methodist Hospital as serious, and x-ray pictures were taken to determine the injury to his skull. It had been thought at first that only a superficial flesh wound was inflicted. Kinney was weakened by loss of blood and shock.

Kinney had been living at an apartment hotel.

He arose early this morning and went to the Culter & Proctor Stove Company, of which he formerly was president.

Sent Watchman Away
Asking the watchman to buy him a Chicago newspaper, he entered the office. A few moments later the watchman, returning, heard two shots. Running to the president's office he found Kinney prostrate, his forehead bleeding from a wound inflicted with his 32 calibre revolver.

been taken. The tax payers of Lee county are entitled to know that the County Treasurer was not a participant in the action in the courts as this office is and always has been ready to make the proper refund to those who have paid the illegal tax when an order of the courts warranted such action.

Personally, I have thought from the first that the taxpayers who paid the illegal tax entitled to the refund. Those who refused to pay the tax have had the advantage of having had the use of that money while those who did pay the amounts have not. The orders of the court have governed the actions of this office entirely.

GREAT FASCIST
ARMADA READY FOR TAKE-OFF

Twenty-Five Seaplanes
Will Leave Tomorrow
For Chicago Fair

Orbetello, Italy, June 23—(AP)—After a final satisfactory take-off drill this morning which lasted thirty-five minutes, War Minister Italo Balbo pronounced his transatlantic squadron of 25 seaplanes ready to take off at dawn tomorrow on the first leg of a 6100-mile flight via the sub-polar regions to Chicago.

Weather conditions over the Alps now are reported good and growing more favorable.

High Fascist officials, including General Emilio De Bono former Supreme Chief of the Fascist Army, witnessed the final drill of the armada.

No more than 24 planes will make the entire flight to Chicago. The 25th will fly only as far as Reykjavik, Iceland, or take the place of any plane forced to fall out anywhere up to that point.

100 Crack Fighters
The A. R. Minister and 100 crack Fascist fliers composing the expedition will spend the night at the High Seas Aerial Navigation school here. They will rise at about 4 A. M. prepared to get away for Amsterdam with the coming of daylight.

If things go well the 24 planes will descend at the Dutch metropolis six hours after leaving Orbetello, which is 60 miles from Rome. Following a night's repose at Amsterdam the expedition will continue on to London.

The distance of 630 miles. From Londonderry the route is as follows: Londonderry to Reykjavik, Iceland—330 miles.

Reykjavik to Cartwright, Labrador—1,550 miles.

Cartwright to Shediac—800 miles. Shediac to Montreal—600 miles. Montreal to Chicago—870 miles.

While a courtesy visit to the Century of Progress Exposition is the official reason for the trip, the greater importance is Balbo's desire to collect data for future regular transatlantic air communications.

Green described the sales tax as the reversal of the income tax in that it bears most heavily on those least able to pay.

The administration bill giving the Illinois Commerce Commission expanded to investigate and fix public utility rates overcame heavy opposition in the Senate today and was advanced to third reading with one amendment.

A change was made to limit to one half of one per cent of the gross annual revenue of a utility company the cost it would be required to bear of rate investigations ordered by the commission.

A substitute amendment to cut the figure to one tenth of a per cent was tabled after heated debate.

The action followed an open hearing at which three representatives of operating companies argued that the bill would work hardships on utilities and cause increased rates to consumers.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Troop 89 Will Go
To Camp July 8th.

Camp Pinehurst, the new Boy Scout camp situated five and one-half miles southwest of Rockford, and under the supervision of Scoutmaster Kenneth Abbott of this city, will be the scene of a week's outing for members of Troop 89, starting July 8. Scoutmaster Abbott made a brief visit to Dixon yesterday in which he outlined the plans for the trip.

Five Scouts of the troop have been well represented. For a very small fee a boy will be able to go to camp and be housed in new tents with new flooring, cots furnished and under life guard protection, with food also furnished for a period of one week. Boys wishing further information may contact O. D. Flanagan, troop committee member at Lamar Weiss.

Members of the troop have registered for the World's Fair trip starting Sunday and continuing through three days. Due to his present assignment the Scoutmaster will be unable to accompany the boys to Chicago, but transportation and a capable leader has been found so that the trip may be carried out as planned.

administration and agricultural leaders would give joint support to the sales tax and the Lanz bills providing that Cook county could levy local taxes for poor relief.

"Bribery By Patronage"
Such an arrangement would permit the Chicago area to care for its relief problem after the first six months of the new biennium and insure that sales tax revenue would then be used in eliminating the state tax on general property.

Charges that bribery by patronage was being used by the administration to get votes were made by LeRoy Green, Rockford Republican and opposition leader, who said that members were being threatened with a loss of patronage if they defeat the bill.

Green described the sales tax as the reversal of the income tax in that it bears most heavily on those least able to pay.

ADJOURNMENT OF PARLEY IS
"LAUGHED OFF"

MacDonald Gave Press
Interview: Progress Is Made

London, June 23—(AP)—The difficulties of the United States in stabilizing the dollar are "very real," Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald said today in a press interview, but currency uncertainties will now be permitted to block the world economic conference.

The Prime Minister explained that the difficulties of a big conference are at the maximum when it is in progress a fortnight, for then pessimism breaks out. But committees now are getting down to work, he said, and no major delegation will thwart efforts by an irreconcilable attitude.

Calls It "Set-Back"
He characterized the American failure to agree on stabilization of the dollar as a "setback" but said the situation had been clarified by the American statement yesterday, in which it was set forth that Washington considered stabilization to be untimely at present.

The conference is going on, the Prime Minister said, but "success will depend finally on stabilization; all the work that can go on is going on."

He revealed that the question of adjournment was again brought before the steering committee this morning "but it was laughed off."

"Adjournment is foolish," he went on, "and cannot be imagined. If we adjourn now and try to come back in August, the chances are 99-1-2 per cent that conditions will then be worse than now. The beginning of a final settlement must be made now."

Clinton Winner In Golf Match At C. C.

Fifteen members of the Clinton Country Club motored to Dixon yesterday and spent the day at the Dixon Country Club golf course. In the afternoon the visitors defeated Dixon by a score of 18 to 11 in the inter-club match play. Last evening, the visitors were guests at a fried Rock river catfish dinner at the club house.

Next Thursday the Dixon Country Club golfers will go to Rockford where they will spend the afternoon on the Maun-Tee-See course. All who plan to go are requested to notify J. Forest Suter, chairman of the sports committee at once.

SWINE THIEVES BUSY
A farmer residing in Amboy township confided to a deputy sheriff friend recently that four hogs and more than a score of pigs had been stolen from his farm. Before reporting his loss to the officer, the farmer consulted a clairvoyant, where he was reported to have been given the three initials of the supposed thief.

With the three initials as the only clue, an investigation was begun. Today it was reported that the pigs had been found at a place not far distant from their original home, and the four brood sows were said to have been hauled to Chicago and sold. The sheriff's office was conducting an investigation today.

THE RAINY DAY
HE day is cold, and dark and dreary;
It rains, and the wind is never weary;
The vine still clings to the mouldering wall,
But at every gust the dead leaves fall—
And the day is dark and dreary.

My life is cold, dark and dreary
It rains and the wind is never weary;
My thoughts still cling to the mouldering Past,
But the hopes of youth fall thick in the blast,
And the days are dark and dreary.

Be still, sad heart! and cease repining;
Behind the clouds is the sun still shining;
Thy fate is the common fate of all,
Into each life some rain must fall,
Some days must be dark and dreary.

—Henry W. Longfellow.

FRILLS AND FLOUNCES FOR GALA SUMMER EVENINGS

There's an Informal Air to New Creations From Paris

By ROSETE HARGROVE
NEA Service Writer

PARIS—Summer evening dresses have a little air of informality this season which is perhaps one of their most attractive characteristics. Remembering that all or almost all social functions that happen in the summertime are country club or out-of-doors affairs, couturiers have gone even one better than in previous years and created reasonable as well as glamorous models.

There are a number of creations in the collections that can be made do double duty and serve for both formal and informal occasions by the addition or removal of a gumpie or some such other trivoliety.

But most women will probably admit that this type of dress, however practical it may be, loses somehow much character and attraction. Many of the smartest women will prefer to be restricted to one dinner and one evening gown and have them both perfect and complete.

Chanel Gowns Alluring
There is much allure and mystery in the new evening gowns for formal entertaining which Chanel is showing this season. Tulle, the perfect summer medium—it is so diaphanous and cool-looking—fashions some of the most successful numbers.

Frills and ruffles, in the 1900 manner but handled in a very modern way, form a halo for the head or edge a fichu, the two edges of a tunic skirt an dthe hem. The transparency or tulle or chiffon is well able to carry ruchings and frills.

One such gown, in white tulle, has its accompanying jacket, also in tulle, with a high, ruffled collar and ruffled sleeves to match the ruffles on the billowing skirt and nothing more romantic could be desired. Still another Chanel model in black tulle is edged with a graded pleated flounce in bright red.

Schiaparelli—Empire Lines
Schiaparelli's evening dresses are frankly Empire in line. Many of them have fichu necklines which cross high in front and tie at the back. Her evening skirts are moderately wide and she has re-introduced the "balayuse" or pleated ruche inside the skirt which helps to weigh the hem down.

Benefit Tea a Decided Success

The February committee of the Presbyterian Auxiliary gave a benefit garden tea Thursday at the beautiful home of M. S. George.

Beier, 515 N. Hennepin. There were about one hundred guests. Mrs. L. M. Prescott was chairman and the assisting hostesses were Mesdames S. C. Stantfield, Geo. R. Fleuhr, W. M. Rhodes, H. A. Roe, A. A. Stoeckle.

A very enjoyable program was presented by the Ladies Troubadette Chorus under the direction of Mrs. E. M. Goodsell. The program consisted of the following numbers:

Chorus—Open, Our Eyes—MacFarlane.
Call of Home—Paul Ambrose.
Solo—To the Children—Rachmannoff.
Trio—To a Wild Rose—MacDowell.
Chorus—Songs My Mother Taught Me—Dvorak.
Homing—Del Riego.
Spring Time—Muldberg.

The personnel of the chorus is Adeline Friseman, Helen Deveny, Leota Rutt, Doris Beach, Lois Weitzel, Elsie Toot, Lucille Trautman, Helen Hoon, soprano, Edna Gleason, Lenore Schwab, Darlene Ostrander, Dolores Feederbaugh, Carol Christianson, Leone Orth, Marie Worley, Marcella Rutt, Eva Schwab, Mary Whitmore, alto, Mrs. L. M. Prescott is the proficient accompanist to the chorus and Mrs. Goodsell their talented and capable director.

After the program Mrs. M. C. Keller, president of the Auxiliary, in a few gracious words invited the guests to the garden where they were served dainty refreshments. The table was most effective in pastel shaded glassware and beautiful garden flowers. Madonnas, lilies, Japanese iris, roses and other garden flowers were in full bloom, adding greatly to the charming scene. This garden spot is an ideal one for a garden party or tea. The colored chairs placed at intervals around the pool, invite one to rest and enjoy the beauty around them, and made a lovely setting for the guests in their summer frocks in pretty colors.

Out of town guests in attendance were Mrs. Ken Dysart of Terre Haute, Ind.; Mrs. George Hewitt of Rio de Janeiro, Brazil; Mrs. George Schuler Pasadena, Cal.; Mrs. E. A. Borg, Calena, Ill.; Mrs. Sam Watson, Baltimore, Md.

The Auxiliary made a neat sum for the treasury.

WEDDING WEDNESDAY at Maytown

Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock at St. Mary's Catholic church in Maytown, the Reverend Father Halbmair officiated at the marriage of Miss Lois Stephenhitch and Harry Myer. The double ring service was solemnized.

The bride was gown in lovely white embroidered organdie with hat to match. She carried a bouquet of bridal roses. Miss Mary Stephenhitch her sister, was the maid of honor who wore blue organdie and carried pink roses. The brother of the bridegroom, Russell Myer, attended him as best man.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Myer are popular young people in a large circle of friends who extend best wishes to them for happiness.

ENTERTAINS WITH LUNCHEON TODAY—Mrs. Isador Eichler entertained with a luncheon today in Sterling.

New evening gowns are diaphanous. A demure ruffly white tulle dress (left) has a little ruffled jacket of self-material. Quaint and different is the black and red tulle dress (right), with drop-shoulders finished like a fichu in ruffles of the red. Red ruffles also edge the black panels and finish the entire skirt edge.

Augustabernard shows a great deal of chiffon for evening wear, so does Chantal and organdie fashions many others.

Marcel Rochas uses organdie too but makes his dresses fit closely to somewhere round the knees where they simply billow in voluminous godels or flounces. Huge bows and draped belts of velvet complete the toilette. Hyacinth and fuchsia are his favored colors for evening.

Square Decollete Popular

The square decollete is almost as popular as the V or halter neckline which is held together by a string of beads or flowers. The very formal type of gown has no sleeves and is sometimes generously cut away under the arms, but there is not quite so large an expanse of back exposed as heretofore, intricate strap effects being used instead, with glimpses of flesh showing.

Soft cambric, handkerchief linen embroidered in eyelet and other embroideries, and some of the new fine cottons are seen in many of the very dressy evening models.

Molynex has one in white "plumetis" the skirt of which is trimmed with three flounces forming a slight train at the back.

Mainbocher has a number of tulle and chiffon evening models and he uses a great deal of sunray pleating for his chine and satin gowns.

There are quite a number of fringed creations here too. Mainbocher's evening line is one of perfect simplicity with skirts fitting closely to the hips and gradually widening out at the hem.

the guests to the garden where they were served dainty refreshments. The table was most effective in pastel shaded glassware and beautiful garden flowers. Madonnas, lilies, Japanese iris, roses and other garden flowers were in full bloom, adding greatly to the charming scene. This garden spot is an ideal one for a garden party or tea. The colored chairs placed at intervals around the pool, invite one to rest and enjoy the beauty around them, and made a lovely setting for the guests in their summer frocks in pretty colors.

Out of town guests in attendance were Mrs. Ken Dysart of Terre Haute, Ind.; Mrs. George Hewitt of Rio de Janeiro, Brazil; Mrs. George Schuler Pasadena, Cal.; Mrs. E. A. Borg, Calena, Ill.; Mrs. Sam Watson, Baltimore, Md.

The Auxiliary made a neat sum for the treasury.

Miss Delhotal Entertains Club

Miss Delhotal was hostess to her bridge club, the Ezy Club last evening at the home of Mrs. Harold Fisher.

Miss Lucille Farley was awarded the favor for high score, and Miss Mary Farley received second favor. The hostess served tempting refreshments.

ARE GUESTS AT ARTHUR MORRIS HOME

Mr. and Mrs. George Hewitt of Niagara Falls, N. Y., are visiting at the home of Mr. Hewitt's sister, Mrs. Arthur Morris of Franklin Grove. Mr. Hewitt has returned from an extensive stay in South America and Europe.

WEDDING WEDNESDAY at Maytown

Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock at St. Mary's Catholic church in Maytown, the Reverend Father Halbmair officiated at the marriage of Miss Lois Stephenhitch and Harry Myer. The double ring service was solemnized.

The bride was gown in lovely white embroidered organdie with hat to match. She carried a bouquet of bridal roses. Miss Mary Stephenhitch her sister, was the maid of honor who wore blue organdie and carried pink roses. The brother of the bridegroom, Russell Myer, attended him as best man.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Myer are popular young people in a large circle of friends who extend best wishes to them for happiness.

Caution About Baby's Sun Bath

Be careful about sunbaths these scorching days.

Again I urge that the doctor be consulted about what your children need. As I said in a former article, it is not necessary to call him every five minutes on the telephone, or even every day. But make out a list of questions to ask when you do see him. And make it a point to see him. His advice, plus your good judgment, make the best combination of safety I know.

Scorching summer sun shining for long directly on the body can do a great deal of harm. It is just a question of whether on very hot days small bodies need sunbaths at all. But if so, it should be in the first part of the morning, or toward evening.

Ask The Doctor
I cannot presume to direct the sunbath when the thermometer is 90 or 95 degrees. Then the chief business of life is to keep the children as cool as possible. But ask the doctor. He will direct you.

Those children old enough to run around, as well as the baby, need very little clothing. You cannot keep them in the shade every second but at midday and during the intense afternoon heat, it is better for them to be in the darkened, quiet house. Don't let them play out on a baked street with the sun beating down on bare heads and where the concrete is hot enough to fry eggs.

Later in the summer the children will get more "hardened" to the sun. These first hot days have the effect of shock. The sun like some medicines has to be approached gradually in small doses to be at all useful. When skin pigments increase and the skin is conditioned to stand the onslaught of rays, children may more safely stand exposure.

Mid-Afternoon Dangerous
But one rule I should observe all through the summer. Never permit continued exposure through the hot part of the afternoon. During that time they should be quiet. And most of them should either be having naps (up to five—or even six in a more delicate child), or if not napping, resting in bed—alone.

A word here about sunburn. I believe that most people know now that sunburn is not to be fooled with. Not only does it destroy skin surface, and its power to throw off perspiration, but it does things to the body. When a certain amount of skin surface is destroyed, even temporarily, it throws an extra burden on other excretory organs, sometimes more than they can take care of. Go at sunburn slowly and carefully.

Keep Little Heads Covered

Heads should be covered. Make the little children wear brimmed hats, you can get them for a dime, when they are out in the hot sun.

I have been asked about cod-liver oil in summer. This is one other thing the doctor has to settle. The sun is considered a substitute, or rather, the other way about. Many children are taken off the oil when hot days begin. But others continue it if they are

Marian Martin Pattern

FOR THE SMART MATRON.

Pattern 9382

Here is an example of careful styling for the matron—a frock that is extremely modish as well as perfect in line and detail for the larger figure. The smart bodice details, graceful sleeves, snug hip yoke and very slender skirt seaming add height to the silhouette and make it more slender. It would be loveliest for warm weather in a printed sheer, with lace banding.

Pattern 9382 may be ordered only in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 4 1/2 yards 39-inch fabric and 1 1/2 yards 1 1/2-inch lace. Clear, diagrammed cutting and sewing instructions included with this pattern.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for EACH MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE of each pattern ordered.

JUST OFF THE PRESS—THE MARIAN MARTIN BOOK OF SUMMER PATTERNS offering a wide assortment of advance styles to keep you and your youngsters cool, comfortable and appropriately dressed whether you are spending your summer in town at the shore or in the country. This book will help you plan a stunning wardrobe of easy-to-make styles at a surprisingly low cost. ORDER YOUR COPY TODAY! PRICE OF PATTERN BOOK, FIFTEEN CENTS. BOOK AND PATTERN TOGETHER, TWENTY-FIVE CENTS. Send your order to The Dixon Evening Telegraph Pattern Department 232 W. 18th St., New York, N. Y.

weak, ill, or malnourished. The little baby, too, may or may not need it depending on his condition, where he lives and how he lives.

All signs fail in this cruel, hot weather. There can be no blanket rule that covers every case.

Bible Class Has Enjoyable Picnic

The Bible Class of the M. E. church school taught by Mrs. Clara Row had a most delightful picnic supper at 6:30 last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Shipbert near Eldena. There were about 85 in attendance members and families. The evening was delightfully cool.

ADVICE TO THE MARRIED

In the ruling handed down recently by an advisory master in a New Jersey divorce case there is a little food for thought which a lot of married folk might profitably ponder over.

A husband, in this case, sued for divorce because his wife occasionally caused him humiliation by drinking more than was good for her. The advisory master chosen by the court, after pointing out that the wife had reared a family for her husband, asserted that the humiliation she caused him, "when weighed against the privileges, joys and comforts of the rest of his married life, made forbearance a marital duty."

There is a little truth which every happily married couple knows very well. No two people can live together for years without hurting one another occasionally. Most married folk, however, know something of the duty of forbearance. If they all did, the divorce courts would do a lot less business.

ELIMINATE THE RACKETEERS

One of the good things the Senate did in its final moments was to vote a drastic investigation into racketeering America's biggest cities.

If our "new deal" is to be all that it ought to be, it must find some way of dealing with the racketeer; and although a great deal is known about that problem, no effective correctives can be designed and applied until a lot of definite, detailed knowledge is tabulated. The best way to get such knowledge seems to be by means of a Senate investigation; and the committee members who will study the matter this summer and fall can be relied upon to get it.

Following that there must be new legislation. It is to be hoped that the investigators will find some way in which an aroused nation can strike a crippling blow at the underworld sharpers who have been levying such a heavy toll on legitimate business.

BOTH BRAWN AND BRAINS

That part of the general public which is interested in college football is pretty well used to the sight of the star athlete who manages to complete his college course only by dint of the most terrific mental struggle. The burly fullback who takes snap courses, has a tutor to prepare him for exams and even then gets passing marks only because the professors are lenient—he is common and a rather uninspiring figure on the campus.

But the football star isn't always in that class. It is instructive, for example, to notice the names of the five cadets who finished their courses at West Point recently at the head of the list in academic work. The top man of all was none other than Kenneth Fields, famous as a football halfback. Two of the other four were also well-known athletes.

And the curriculum at West Point makes the average college course look soft by comparison.

LAW ENFORCEMENT WITHOUT GUNS

A London magazine recently contained an article in which it was urged that the city authorities turn down proposals to equip London policemen with weapons, on the ground that such a step would incite criminals to carry arms also; and the news is interesting on this side of the water chiefly as a revelation that the police of the world's largest city have not so far found it necessary to carry arms on their ordinary tours of duty.

The reason, probably, is that the British policeman is backed up by the law far more effectively than any officer in this country. When he makes an arrest, there is no district leader slipping in to police headquarters to get the charges against his man dropped; there are not a thousand loopholes in the criminal law by which an unscrupulous lawyer can free his man; there are not a lot of criminals who go untouched because they have influence.

The British cop very truly represents "the majesty of the law." He does not, as a usual thing, need to carry a weapon with him.

OUR PROGRESS IN ART

American artists, says Homer Saint-Gaudens, are no longer under the compulsion of going to Europe to learn and practice their craft. Hunting for pictures to be exhibited in the 31st international show of the Carnegie Institute at Pittsburgh, this famous art director says he found only two "important" American painters still working in France.

"Twenty years ago," he says, "one-third of the American artists who counted spent at least a part of their time in Paris. Now the school has gone home. It wasn't the depression that did it, either, but a growing consciousness among the artists that they didn't need to go to Paris to paint."

There is no such thing as the present; all is either past or future.—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University.

The man who keeps everything not worth remembering often attains the university degree.—George Bernard Shaw.

THE YAMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The tree that came to life cried out, "You think you'll get away, no doubt. Well, that gives me a great big laugh. I'm much too fast for you."

"Go right ahead, you scamp," and run, but I will shortly spoil your fun. Oh my, but you'd be scared if you knew what I plan to do."

"My limb arms are real long, you see. Just thing how easy it will be to reach right out, at any time, and grab you by the waist. 'I would suggest that you all stop. Then I may let my whole plan drop.' The Thymites, however, took no chances. On they raced!

Soon little Doty grew tired out, so she decided not to shout and let the others know that she was falling far behind.

I surely will be caught, thought she. I wonder what that monstrous tree will do. Perhaps 'twill shake me. If that's all, I will not mind.

The others hadn't turned around determined some place must be found where they could hide, they just ran on. Soon Scouty cried, "Hurrah!"

"Alone I see a large rock pile. We all might hide in there a while. The big tree may not find us. Perhaps, then it will go away."

So, in among the rocks they ran. "Crouch down," said Windy, "if you can." And then he looked around and noticed Doty was not there.

"Oh, Doty's left behind," he cried. "The tree is almost at her side. In just about a minute she is going to get a scare."

It turned out that the lad was right. The whole bunch saw a thrilling sight. The tree grabbed Doty and lifted her up high.

And then the tree began to roar. "Oh, my! I wonder what's in store," said Copsy. "We must rescue her. Who's brave enough to try?" (Duncy springs a surprise in the next story.)

Under the direction of Miss Mayme Kuhn, a very unusual program will be offered in our church next Sunday evening, June 25th, at 7 o'clock to which the public is cordially invited. Fifteen of the members of the Luther League will join in a story speaking contest describing the three most prominent phases of the church's missionary work.

The program is as follows: Congregational Hymn. Scripture passage and prayer. Contest:

"Why Didn't He Know Him..... Sooner"..... Dorothy Meyer. "Three Stories of a Blind Boy"..... Edgar Clark.

"Men and Women Who Have Proved God"..... Orlando Spangler. "The Story of a Paper Lantern"..... Velma Weidman.

Musical: Velma Weidman.

Few men achieve their goal without vitality and drive. And so many are held back from their best by a common ailment: constipation. It dulls energy, often causes headaches, sleeplessness. It takes the vim out of your day's work.

Correct constipation by eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is similar to that of lettuce. Within the body, it becomes a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes. How much better than using pills and drugs—so often harmful.

Two tablespoonfuls daily will correct most types of constipation. I not relieved this way, see your doctor.

ALL-BRAN also has iron for the blood. At all grocers. In the red and green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

FIGHTING CHAMP TO MATCH POWER WITH REAL THREAT

Canzoneri-Ross Bout To-night Should Be Full Of Thrills

Chicago, June 23.—(AP)—Tony Canzoneri, one of the finest human fighting machines the ring has ever known, risks his world's light-weight championship for the fifth time in three years tonight against his most spectacular challenger, Barney Ross of Chicago's Ghetto.

Climaxing a surprising four-year professional career, which found him defeating such trial horses of the ring as Billy Petrolle and But Battalino, Ross will tackle the hard-hitting champion, a champion that loves to fight, for 10 rounds or less at the Chicago Stadium before a promised throng of 16,000 and upwards.

Champ Is Favorite
Chicago boxing fans, who have never seen Canzoneri fight a poor battle since his first appearance here seven years ago and who know his reputation as a money fighter, installed the champ as an 8 to 5 favorite hours before ring time with a lot of takers from the Ross group. The fight was the talk of Chicago's fistie ritalo.

Tonight's battle matched a real two-fisted puncher in the champion against a superior boxer with a terrific right cross counter punch in the challenger. Probably no fighter within 20 pounds of his weight lives, who can stand toe to toe and slug with Tony, a fighting whirlwind when his title is at stake and an indifferent workman when there's nothing to risk but a reputation. Yet in Ross, he is meeting a smart ringman, who can meet a withering attack such as Canzoneri plans to level from the outset and who can cover the territory of a good bantamweight.

Ross can punch, too. He proved that in giving Petrolle a terrific body thumping, for three years he hasn't lost a fight.

Neither Secretive
Neither fighter, trained after weeks of hard drill, was secretive in outlining his plan of attack. Canzoneri said he would open up with a blistering attack, stampede Ross and "soften" him up for a knockout punch early in the fight. Ross, respectful of the champion's ability to give and take, plans to go on the defensive from the start, stab and hook as Tony lunges in and then duck. Eventually, Ross figures, Canzoneri will tire, giving him the chance to take the offensive about the sixth round.

Ross will have approximately two pounds in weight advantage, 135 to 133, and slightly better than an inch advantage in reach. He is 22, Canzoneri is 25.

Senior League's All Star Team Is Picked For July 6

Chicago, June 23.—(AP)—President John Heydler and his all-star manager, John McGraw have picked their National League players for that big one-game argument with the best in the American League, July 6.

Eighteen stars of the senior circuit have been chosen to play in the game and every team in the league is represented. St. Louis and New York leading the field with four each.

The final national League selections: Catchers—Leo Hartnett, Chicago; Jimmy Wilson, St. Louis.

Infielders—Bill Terry, New York; Frankie Frisch, St. Louis; Dick Bartell, Philadelphia; Harold Traynor, Pittsburgh; Elwood English, Chicago; Tony Cuccinello, Brooklyn.

Outfielders—Charles Klein, Philadelphia; Paul Waner, Pittsburgh; Pepper Martin, St. Louis; Chick Haley, Cincinnati; Frank O'Doul, New York; Wally Berger, Boston.

Pitchers—Lonnie Warneke, Chicago; Carl Hubbell, New York; Bill Hallahan, St. Louis, and Harold Schumacher, New York.

Selections of fans, gathered by the Chicago Tribune and newspapers associated in the promotion of the game, were followed closely in picking the National League team except that pitcher Red Lucas, third in the poll, was left out.

Final selections of the American League all-star team are expected within a few days.

SENATORS' BATS PULL TEAM INTO TIE WITH YANKS

At The Same Time Marse Joe's Boys Run Into Trouble

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

The might behind their own bats plus the difficulties the New York Yankees have encountered on the road finally have pulled the Washington Senators into a tie with the world champions for the American League lead.

Continuing their terrific clouting, the Senators defeated the Chicago White Sox yesterday, 11-4, while the Yankees were dropping a 5-4 decision to the St. Louis Browns, made by partners of J. P. Morgan & Company, intends to pursue the same line of questioning next week when it holds hearings on Kuhn, Loeb & Company. Its members maintain the purpose is to develop information which may be of use in framing law charges.

Attorney General Cummings insisted the Department of Justice would go right ahead with prosecution in any case where it scented evidence of tax evasion. His comment on the Mitchell verdict was cryptic: "Nevertheless, I still believe in the jury system."

Spokesmen in congressional circles were even more emphatic and many agreed that the verdict would increase support for new legislation. Two committees are now studying how to go about the major income tax loopholes. The major investigation is one by the House Ways and Means committee, which hopes to report next January a program which will so increase the yield of income taxes as to make unnecessary many of the present nuisance laws.

The Senate Finance committee is carrying on a similar study independently.

and moved into a first place deadlock at 37 victories and 23 defeats. It marked only the third time this season the Yankees had been deprived of sole possession of the lead.

Big Guns Booming

The Senators' victory was their tenth in 11 games in a winning spurt that has coincided with Manager Joe Cronin's batting rampage and with the Yankees' troublesome tour. On June 8 when the Yankees began the trip which has resulted in 10 defeats in 16 games, Cronin was batting only .303. Yesterday he again set the pace for his team with four singles and lifted his average to .352. Heinie Manush, another big gun in Washington's rush, carried his streak of consecutive hitting through 23 games.

The Yankees, meanwhile, encountered pitching trouble again as the last place Browns hammered Walter Brown and then bunched a pair of hits off Danny MacFayden with a costly error to score the winning run in the ninth.

Sox Drop Peg
Chicago's defeat dropped the pale hose into fifth place, a point behind the Athletics, who hammered out eight runs in the fifth inning and defeated the third-place Cleveland Indians 11-6. The Boston Red Sox scored a ten inning 9-7 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

The pressure on the New York Giants, National League leaders, was eased a trifle when they shut out the Cincinnati Reds 4 to 0 behind the five-hit pitching of Carl Hubbell while the Phillies snote the St. Louis Cardinals 9-3 to leave the Cards a game and a half behind.

Ray Benge pitched the Brooklyn Dodgers into fifth place in the circuit, holding the Pittsburgh Pirates to four hits to win his fifth straight victory 9-0. Ed Brandt sent the Boston Braves into a sixth-place tie with Cincinnati with a 3-1 triumph over the Chicago Cubs, giving only seven safeties.

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington — When President Roosevelt dispatched his letters of commendation to the House and Senate after Congress had finally adjourned around to where it could adjourn, he made the wording of the two notes identical.

To both Vice President John N. Garner and Speaker Henry T. Rainey he lauded the "spirit of teamwork" and the "sincere and wholehearted cooperation" which had been shown him.

Ent looking back over the past three months in which the special session went about its grueling task of working out the President's emergency legislative program, one gets the impression that it was the House which gave Mr. Roosevelt the least trouble.

The last few days of the session provided evidence of this. While the Senate was in a snarl over proposed reductions in veterans' compensation and the President was standing pat, it was the House which backed him up and soon the excited Senate came back into line.

And so it was during almost all the special session. In virtually every instance the Representatives were behind the administration.

Not Always Easy

Sometimes it was a rather difficult thing to do, too. The regularity with which their leaders used the ironclad special rules on various bills was hard to take, but members did, and more often than not with a sort of graciousness.

Apparently many of the representatives relegated themselves to the background during the special session that the administration's program might be enacted.

New members, sitting for the first time with their political future depending perhaps on what they accomplished or said at the special session, kept silent.

They cast their votes in some instances for bills which they had not even seen.

A Gentle Hint

But with all that, the question persists as to just what was the power exerted by President Roosevelt that kept the House in line on the veterans' compensation question? Decision to stand by the President was reached in a democratic conference and not a caucus. The conference bound them in no way.

Congressional talk has it that in the conference Majority Leader Byrns reminded the democrats gently that it was the belief of recognized authorities that the best workable party majority is that of 50 or 60. The implication would seem to be that for party purposes the overwhelming number of democrats in the house at the pres-

CAMP LIFE

CAMPING in the woods or on the shore of some lake can be one of the most healthful ways to spend a summer holiday. This is particularly true of city office workers who should aim to get plenty of fresh air and sunshine, and a moderate amount of exercise, during the two weeks vacation usually allotted to them.

When selecting a camp site, go to one that is free from mosquitoes, flies and other insects which are not only unpleasant but also disease carriers and poisonous. Then choose a spot of ground high enough to be dry if it rains. Do not sleep on damp ground. An ample supply of woolen blankets should be provided, as well as warm clothing and sweaters if you are camping in a place where the evenings may be cool.

Matches, cigarettes and cigar stubs should not be thrown away carelessly when camping in the woods. Campfires should also be thoroughly extinguished whenever you leave the camp. Forest fires, causing injury and death, have often been started by careless campers.

Axes and hatchets should be used with care, for it is all too easy to cut a hand or foot badly. Sterilize all cuts, particularly those from rusty nails or old iron, to avoid lock-jaw or other infection.

Firearms

The National Safety Council reports that one-third of the deaths from firearms occur between ages 10 and 19, and another 20 per cent between ages 20 and 29. The hazard exists chiefly among boys and young men. Firearms should be carried only according to the accepted rules. If you don't know the rules, learn them before picking up a gun and tramping through the fields and woods.

Make sure that nobody is in range when you contemplate using firearms, and under no circumstances point a gun at another person. Your victim may never live to hear the all too common and weak excuse, "I didn't know it was loaded."

ent is not necessary. Perhaps those inclined to rebel took note. None relish the idea of having the support of the national party withdrawn when nominating time rolls around next year.

CHECKING UP

By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton

A boy went into a drug store, got change for a dime, and entered a telephone booth. The door was left ajar and the clerk overheard one side of the talk:

"Is this the firm that advertised for a boy a few days ago?"

"Oh! The job has already been filled, has it?"

"Does the boy do his work to suit you?"

"There is no chance for me, then?"

"Thank you, sir; good day."

"Tough luck that you missed out on that job," said the clerk as the boy came out of the booth.

"Don't fool yourself," said the boy. "I landed that job three days ago. I just called up to check up and see how I was doing."

A young man, fresh from college, went into the office of a big business man in New York, to talk about his work in life. It was a serious, thoughtful talk, in the midst of which there was a lull, while the business man sat gazing out of the window. Suddenly he turned to the boy and said, "Do you know, I really question whether I have ever gotten any of this 'happiness' stuff."

He, too, was checking up on himself.

Not long ago a woman wrote a remarkable confession, in which she told how she saved her married life from wreck, when it was nearly on the rocks. Her husband was a decent fellow; he provided for her generously; he was true to her, albeit at times a bit trying—like most human beings. But they were deeply estranged, and naturally she blamed him for it. One day, however, she began to ask herself some very pointed question:

"If his secretary left him he would be panic-stricken; if he lost one or two of his men friends he would be heart-broken. But if I went away—what would he miss? Not companionship, for I am not giving him any, and he would probably prefer to take his meals at the club. Have I taken any interest in his work? Have I not been a cold, selfish parasite instead of a loving wife?"

If, occasionally, we check up on ourselves—do it honestly and searchingly—not trying to hide or dodge facts, it will make the road plainer both for ourselves and for those near to us.

Daily Health Talk

TONSILS

The tonsils present a number of problems which have not as yet been settled to the full satisfaction of clinician, surgeon and patient.

It is not uncommon for a mother to complain that, whereas one doctor insists that the tonsils of her child must be removed at once, another denies the urgency of the situation.

The physiology of the tonsils has not been clearly defined. Structurally we know them to be lymphoid in character. The tonsils bear a very close relation to the other lymph glands and lymph structures.

Lymph tissue is made up largely of the so-called white blood cells. These we know are the patrolmen and the scavengers of the human system, and they protect us to a large degree against the invasion of foreign substances.

Some, however, maintain that, in addition, the tonsils, precisely because they are exposed to infection, help us in developing immunity or resistance to disease. They argue that their unnecessary removal is a handicap rather than a benefit to the child.

From all of this mass of argumentative data, a few universally accepted facts can be abstracted, particularly with regard to the conditions under which the removal of the tonsils is indicated.

First, there are those tonsils which are so large that they interfere with breathing, and may even make swallowing difficult. Such tonsils require surgical treatment.

More important, however, is the removal of the tonsils which are a source of sepsis. How can one determine when the tonsils are a source of sepsis? There are two criteria: one, the history of the case; the other, the appearance of the tonsils. Of the two criteria, the first is the more important.

Professor Hajek of Vienna established this postulate, that if a person has three attacks of follicular tonsillitis during a period of one or two years, the tonsils should be suspected as a source of sepsis. Removal of the tonsils is indicated in such cases.

SPORTS RESORTS

THRILLS GALORE IN FIRST OF OUT- DOOR RING SHOWS

Boxing Fans Are Given Fine Entertainment At Maples Arena

Boxing fans of Dixon and vicinity were provided with plenty of thrills last evening at the opening of the summer season of athletic shows sponsored by the Dixon Athletic club at the Crawford Maples arena east of the city. Six bouts were presented in which the participants came from Rock Island, Peoria and Dixon. It was announced that the two favorites of customers of the local shows will be presented in the bill next week, Arrio Soldati meeting Tony Sulton, an International Golden Glove champion, in one of the main bouts of the card and in the other, none other than Preston "Grandpa" Laurette of Marseilles who will oppose Dave Pollard from Rock Island.

Johnny Baltzer of Rock Island proved his ability to box his way to the International Golden Glove championship in the feature bout last evening when he met Willie Prior of Peoria. The Rock Islander was far the better scrapper of the two but the fans warmed up the prior, who was not at all backward about exchanging leather with the champion, and in the second round had an edge by a decided margin. Baltzer was awarded the decision.

Sub Gets Decision Quinn McCann of Rock Island was not present when the gong sounded announcing his match with Danny Stear of Peoria in the 122 pound class. Instead, Charlie Popjoy, who last Tuesday night scored a win over McCann entered the ring and gave the fans a good entertainment. The match was awarded to Popjoy by the judges.

Johnny Becker of Peoria, who has been seen in action here several times, won the decision of the judges in his match against Fritz Clays of Rock Island in the 147 pound division. Both boxers threw gloves freely and they were well matched.

Louis Visconti of Rock Island was altogether too tough a proposition for Eddie Carlson of this city. Their first round was little to be thrilled over and Referee Jack Sharkey admonished the pair to start boxing after they had danced about the ring at least half the round. Visconti demonstrated that he packed plenty of punch in both hands, although he appeared to depend on his left for the major part of his offensiveness. Visconti sent Carlson to the mat for the count of nine in the second round and was awarded the decision.

Doty Gets Nod William Doty, Dixon state hospital boxer, was awarded the decision over Pewee Woods of Peoria in the second bout on the card. The Dixonite rushed things in the opening round which he took without argument. Throughout the battle he carried the contest to his opponent, and at the close of the third both boxers appeared to be tired, the decision going to Doty.

Ray Wilson, hard hitting heavy of Dixon, made his first appearance at the Maples arena and made it brief. He opened the evening's entertainment opposing Frank Maguire of Rock Island. The bout lasted exactly 38 seconds when Referee Jack Sharkey counted out the visitor. It was the second knockdown. Wilson having floored his opponent in the first ten seconds, and then planted another stinging blow to the body to conclude his first successful appearance in this ring.

Five Years Ago Today—Bobby Jones and Johnny Farrell tied for the National Open golf title, each having 294 at the end of 72 holes.

Ten Years Ago Today—The Giants overwhelmed the Robins with a barrage of hits that netted nine runs. Wheat saved Brooklyn from a rout with a home run.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

BARRETT COLVIN, back in New York after four years, meets 20-year-old ELINOR STAFFORD and falls in love with her. Barrett is 35, wealthy and has made a name for himself as an archeologist.

Elinor's beautiful mother, LIDA STAFFORD, has kept the girl in the background, wanting attention for herself. Lida is carrying on a flirtation with VANCE CARTER and is constantly scheming to keep in the good graces of MISS ELLA SEXTON, her husband's aunt, in order to inherit a share of the Sexton fortune. Elinor hates this hypocrisy.

Barrett's half-sister, MARCIA RADNOT, is terrified for fear her husband will learn of an unfortunate episode in her past. Years before Barrett shielded Marcia when a youthful romance ended disastrously. Marcia had a son whom Barrett adopted. The boy is nine years old now. Marcia insists that if her husband learns the truth he will never forgive her.

HAROLD DEXTER, the boy's tutor, threatens blackmail. Barrett, hinting at knowledge of Dexter's past, frightens the man into promising he will not make trouble.

Barrett takes Elinor Stafford for a drive. She seems so attracted toward him as he is toward her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XI

ELINOR rose quickly and left the room. She returned, flushed and smiling, from the telephone conversation with Barrett Colvin.

"He wanted," she said, "to know if I didn't think it would be better to take our drive tomorrow since the weather forecast is clear. We were going to go Tuesday."

"Did it take seven minutes for him to say that?" her father asked.

Elinor laughed. "Oh, but that wasn't all. He said he hoped I hadn't been chilled driving this afternoon and he said he'd never enjoyed an afternoon more and thanked me for it. And I thanked him and said I'd enjoyed it too."

"Twenty in June, weren't you, dearest?" Bentwell asked.

"Yes, but why bring that up?" she replied lightly. She was so happy!

They moved to the room Lida called the library, arm in arm. Stafford's heart was crackling to small, sharp slivers that cut at each beat. He didn't want his little girl to grow up to fall in love and leave him. But, on the other hand, he did want her settled and away from her mother's bold lies and frail deceptions, from his drinking himself to forgetfulness.

In the big room Elinor turned to put her arms around his neck. "You mustn't feel sorry!" she entreated. "You're first! You'll always be first with me, darling!"

He held her close, laid his cheek against her soft hair. And when she stood away she saw that his eyes were wet. "I'm so foolish!" she admitted. "And I've made you so! Aren't we being rather dramatic over nothing? I don't know what the matter with me!"

Her father knew what was the matter and the recurring possibility of Colvin's hurting her brought color to his cheeks. "Thank God,"

Lida heard voices—Elinor's and some man's. She stepped to listen faintly.

he thought, "Lida will be out of the way for a while!" If only they could have everything settled before Lida's return—assuming, of course, that Colvin really cared for Elinor as she seemed to care for him. Then it would be all right.

If the affair were still in the air when Lida returned she could—and would—smash it if she wished. Stafford knew her—her strength, her lack of principle which made her the most formidable of foes, her willingness to stoop to and use any weapon.

MARCIA had telephoned, Barrett learned when he arrived home. He called her for the second time that day—a day that had been stretched to unnatural length by worry and ecstasy. That the unpleasant interview with Dexter had occurred only that morning he could hardly believe.

"Is that you, Marcia?" he said into the telephone.

"Yes, dear. Thank you so much for calling. I wanted you to know that I've been so relieved and happy since I heard from you at noon."

"I'm glad of that," he answered as he had before; the menace of it, the hopelessness of it. He could feel only the understanding and lovelessness and gentleness of the girl who had ridden beside him in the gray of the early evening and the truth that had come to him so suddenly that he was still dizzy from its strong impact.

"Dear," he heard next, "can you run up to have dinner with us? We had an engagement but we begged off."

For the first time in his life Barrett lied expertly. He couldn't talk to Marcia this evening. He had to be alone to think!

He said goodby to her and then telephoned Elinor.

"Are you dining in, sir?" Higgins questioned a short while later. "Yes, Higgins," Barrett answered happily. Before he left the room he wrote, "Flowers, candy, pink box" on a day-by-day pad. That it was an absurd and unnecessary reminder he realized, feeling slightly a fool. Nevertheless it was a satisfaction to write it. He stood looking down at the words. She didn't think he seemed old. He had said, "I usually feel frightfully decrepit when I'm with anyone your age," and she had answered with a bluntness that had elated him. "That's the silliest thing I've ever heard!"

HE had said, "Really do you mean it?" and she had replied, "I certainly do!" They had talked of it for some time; he confessing his hatred of old fools who crashed in on the buds and she was saying that was "quite different." He had admitted his 35 years and she her 20.

And later, over the telephone, she had said she had enjoyed the afternoon. Her voice had been not quite steady and he had wanted to say, "You darling! You darling!" Instead he had only said, "Be sure to dress warmly enough tomorrow."

Barrett looked at the clock; tossed his cigarette into the fire. At this time tomorrow night he would be with her in that pleasant, small inn which Marcia had said was unchanged. He'd telephone ahead and order something special. And wear the London tweeds he liked about as well as anything he had. He decided suddenly that he had been neglecting his wardrobe for a long while. Have to remedy that. See his tailor tomorrow.

Tomorrow seemed a long time away. He studied the laggard clock.

What an adventure coming home would be with her in the house! What a magnet she would be! He saw himself slipping from his coat, hurrying into the drawing room, stooping to take her in his arms. Was it fair to her to dream this way, not knowing how she felt? He must hold himself in a bit. But he had never wanted anything very much without getting it, he reassured himself. He knew he had force, and if he thought he could make her as happy as she should be he would use that force. Then—altogether for the rest of their lives! His lean cheeks warmed, thinking thus.

If she could ever say, "I love you!" he would ask nothing more!

LIDA, in a way, had enjoyed Miami. Vance Carter had been there, as devoted as usual, and she had been amused. True, his infatuation had a few times made him difficult for even her to handle. She had had to make promises she had never intended to voice. These bothered her a trifle, although time, Lida had found, often untangled the webs that follow the first deceit. Still she did wish Carter hadn't made her say she would divorce Bentwell to marry him as soon as Miss Ella died.

She wrote Miss Ella dutifully, telling her that the cough which had forced her to leave "dear Bent and Elinor" was almost gone. She knew Miss Ella approved a mother who remembered her obligations.

At the end of three weeks Lida got reservations for the trip north. Carra and Hal were going on to Havana. They had spoken of it frequently and a bit too pointedly, with eyes fixed above Lida's head.

Lida told Carter that it was tragic how friends disappointed one. She had really liked Carra until, living in the same house with her, she had found Carra disapproving of "nothing at all," stiffening with each day and becoming more and more combative.

Carra had said, eyes narrowing, "Lida, if I were you I wouldn't play much more with Vance Carter. It's rather cruel, don't you think?"

And Lida's innocent, "But Carra—I can't think what you mean!" had done nothing but make the other woman look at her with a disconcerting steadiness, laugh unpleasantly and say bluntly, "Don't be a fool! You know damned well what I mean!"

The visit had, as this continued, been rather disappointing.

Lida loathed trains and the people one saw upon them. She arrived in New York in a smoldering mood to find that the motor for which she had wired was not waiting for her. Fuming within, she gave a taxicab chauffeur the Park Avenue address and planned the stinging reprimand she would voice to Bentwell and Elinor. They should have seen that she was met!

She let herself into the apartment with her key, taken from a bag Carra had given her—forced by Lida's envious, loudly voiced admiration. Later Carra had said to Hal, "She's hopeless—completely without pride and a schemer. I can't see how I was fooled for so long!"

Inside the apartment Lida paused a moment in the foyer. Then she heard voices beyond. Elinor's voice and some man's. She couldn't place the man but she knew it was not Bobby Telfair who had long been devoted to Elinor.

Deliberately eavesdropping, Lida stepped to the door to hear what they were saying.

JUST A MOLEHILL—

Primo Camera is flatter than his own feet! The Ambling Alp has become nothing but just the indignant Italian. Primo is bankrupt, busted, broke, kaput, with nary a cocoanut to his name, he always in a petition led in New York.

Legal actions, while not always being revealing sometimes. And this one gives a pretty good slant on what may be expected when Messrs. Sharkey and Camera get together on the 29th. For the petition describes Camera as "an exhibitor."

Lots of other fine fresh morals can be drawn from da Preem's insolvency. One of many real estate men bring up the steam shovels and take a piece of it for themselves. Can be cut into no values so small that each is of no value at a dime a dozen.

HOW DOES HE MANAGE—

Leon See, the Frog-eating circus man who brought the mastodon mauler to America; Jeff Dickson, the American promoter in Paris who helped with the early ballyhoo; Big Bill Duffy, Charley Friedman, and look who's here, Owney Madden, No. 1, Public Enemy of New York City!

All are listed as owning a piece of Camera's net. The net result is that poor Primo figures himself as being worth just $39,647 less than nothing at all. Owney, now sojourning temporarily in the state's health resort at Sing Sing, may get back to town too late to get even a slender slice of the Venetian vacuum.

But the battling over the pieces must have been pretty brisk at that. Leon See, for instance, is listed as claiming $3,779 for alleged purchases of da Preem's earnings. Camera says no, and lists among his assets two notes for $5530 and $3562 drawn by Leon See and endorsed by Rosie See and described as "uncollectible and of no value." Financing like that flattens us out like a slap from Camera's glove. The House of Morgan didn't originate all the financial complications after all.

Now Leon See himself gave forth a great blast of trumpets in claiming that Camera made $103,391 in his first 10 fights, and he has certainly made much more than that since. The fact that a London waitress claims Primo owes her $14,390 for trifling with her affections, doesn't explain the difference between over $200,000 and minus $59,000.

She produced letters she said were from Camera (so you see he can write) in which he referred tenderly to "our little nest of love." Get yourself a framed cabinet-sized photo of Primo Camera in a little nest of any kind, will you!

Anyway, the net result of three years of traveling up and down the country as "an exhibitor" seems to have been just $59,000 less than nothing for Primo. As Shakespeare said:

"They're pretty apt to shear off the fleece of you
If to many guys have grabbed off a piece of you."

DID YOU KNOW—

The White Sox, who haven't been a first-division outfit since 1929, are outdriving the National League Club, Chicagoans, 53.52% of them, recently saw the Sox and Yankees split a twin bill—that figure set an all-time attendance record for major league baseball in the Windy City. Linwood (Schoolboy) Rowe outstanding in this year's crop of major league recruits, once was a fighter—he didn't like the racket so turned to baseball. They are saying Rogers Hornsby will don a managerial robe next season and that it'll be with the Red Sox. Phillies or Tigers—the Rajah piloted the Cubs until he could not agree with Bill Veck—and now he is a star bench-warmer with the St. Louis Cards, a club he once managed.

DIXON POST G. A. R. OBSERVED 50th BIRTHDAY

dier, Warren H. Parks, First Lieut. of the 140th Illinois Volunteers, Mrs. Parks is now 85th old and is as spry and observing as fifty years younger. She was present at the luncheon and at the close of the song, "To the Grand Army," she was requested to rise with her daughter, Mrs. Read, and both received a vote of thanks for the patriotic song so beautifully written and rendered. Mrs. Elmer Rice accompanied Mrs. Read.

Cake With Candles
Mrs. Tella Whitford, Dept. Chaplain invoked the Divine blessing, and afterward, Mrs. Janina Ware, Senior Vice President of the Dixon Circle, was then requested to light the candles on the cake, which she did, expressing in a graceful and charming little talk, the appreciation of all present to the Veterans and that for which they stood. The song written by Mrs. Parks, also expressed these sentiments and the hope and knowledge that the ideals for which these grand old men fought may not be allowed to die.

Out-Of-Town Guests
At the close of the luncheon Mrs. Jones announced that in view of the fact that a memorial tree was about to be dedicated on the court house lawn, the lovely song by Joyce Kilmer "Trees," would be sung by Mrs. A. D. George, Mrs. George, in her clear sweet soprano voice, sang beautifully this appropriate selection, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Rice, who then with her young son Jimmie at the drums played martial music as the old soldiers were escorted from the room to the court house lawn. Guests at the luncheon included representatives from the different patriotic orders in the city, the American Legion Auxiliary, G. A. R. Circle, D. U. V., War Mothers, etc.

Out of town guests included Mrs. Jora Bowen of Bloomington, the Dept. President; Mrs. Mary Mursock, Chicago, the Dept. Inspector; Mrs. Della Lancaster, Senior Vice President, Decatur; Mrs. Nell O'Connell, Dept. Press Correspondent of Elgin; Mrs. Moberley, chairman of the department executive committee of Chicago; and Mrs. Tella Whitford, Dept. Chaplain.

The dedication of a tree to the post, conducted by the W. R. C. at the court house square was very largely attended and the program was carried out as planned. Mrs. Moderena Jakes served as chairman and the program opened with selections by the Dixon Junior Band under the direction of Russell Mason. Mrs. Nellie Eastman read an interesting paper prepared by Commander George L. Richardson of Dixon post No. 299, G. A. R. which was as follows:

History of Post
"The Grand Army of the Republic is a commemorative organization of the Civil War of 1861 to 1865. This war preserved the Union and abolished slavery on American soil. The Grand Army of the Republic was organized in Decatur, Ill., April 6, 1866, and was conceived in the mind of Dr. Benjamin F. Stephenson. It was the inspiration of genius born to bless and cheer the comrades of a great war. Seven of the veterans of Illinois have been Commander-in-Chief of the National G. A. R. The highest membership of the National Encampment was in 1931, it then being 409,489.

"In 1930, it numbered 16,397. The state encampment in 1890 had a membership of 32,711. In 1901, 1,047 were present. In 1933, at Jacksonville, but 45 veterans were in the state parade. Thus are the ranks of the G. A. R. diminishing. "The Grand Army of the Republic is an unusual organization, for these reasons: First, it accepts as members only veterans of the Civil War. Neither wealth nor fame can open its ranks. Not even the President of the United States can enter as a member without producing a discharge paper issued by our government from service in the Civil War. Hence, the G. A. R. declines in members as the veterans pass into the Great Beyond, and can have no existence, after the veterans now living, ceased to be. History will record their deeds and generations to come will benefit by their accomplished results.

"Secondly, the G. A. R. bars no veterans from membership because of party affiliations or religious belief. No discussion of politics or religion is allowed at their meetings. "Organized in 1883, "The Dixon post, No. 299, was organized June 22, 1883. Much of the data of said organization was destroyed by fire in 1900. Hence, much of the history of the formative years of the post must remain in oblivion. "The Civil War veterans who have been enrolled during the post's existence number 322, only 11 of whom are living. They are John F. Reed, Charles W. Steel, William Sheets, Charles W. Johnson, Jerry Hess, J. Prunty, Orlan Coltrin, John Ford, T. J. Miller, John L. Brink and George L. Richardson.

"The following members have served as commander of the post: Charley W. Dey, James H. Thompson, Seth P. Thomas, G. G. Messer, A. C. Bardwell, William H. Gray, L. W. Mitchell, Henry Cook, John T. Reed, S. W. Youngman, Hiram Heller, Charles Noble, C. W. Johnson, Henry Bremer and George L. Richardson. The Dixon post membership has furnished for service to the world, statesmen, lawyers, doctors, teachers, and other professional men. The National G. A. R. has provided the United States with six Presidents: Ulysses S. Grant, Rutherford B. Hayes, James

A. Garfield, Chester A. Arthur, Benjamin Harrison and William McKinley.

"To its eternal credit it can be truthfully said that no one member of our post has proved recreant to the duties of citizenship or has shown disloyalty to any trust. The Dixon post has always been honored and respected by the city and county officials. The city has given a home to the post since the erection of the city hall in 1905. Lee County has contributed a memorial tablet to all soldiers of the Civil War who enlisted from Lee County.

"The county has granted space to the Woman's Relief Corps, to plant a tree and erect a tablet in the court house grounds. This is done in commemoration of the fiftieth anniversary of the Dixon post, No. 299, G. A. R. Naught but kindness and good will have ever been shown by the citizens of Dixon and Lee County.

Able Auxiliaries
"The Woman's Relief Corps, the Ladies of the G. A. R. and the Daughters of Union Veterans have assisted the Dixon post. At the present time, on account of age and sickness of members of the post, the allied orders greatly help to carry on.

"To each and every one I give, in the name of the Dixon post 299, sincere thanks. Our motto is ever, 'Fraternity, Charity and Loyalty.' Mrs. Minnie Auman, patriotic instructor of the Relief Corps, accompanied by color bearers conducted the dedication of the tree and tablet. Chairman Walter Orsinger of the county board of supervisors accepted the memorial on behalf of the citizens of Lee county with the following appropriate remarks:

"As chairman of the Board of Supervisors of Lee county, and in behalf of the people of the best county of the best state of the best nation on earth, I have the honor to accept this memorial tree and tablet commemorating a half-century of the existence of that great soldier and sailor organization—the Grand Army of the Republic.

"Though the leaves will fall in autumn's chilling breezes, and be covered with the snows of winter, yet in the springtime they with the flowers will burst forth anew. The grass upon this very ground shall cover the earth round about. The birds will sing from the foliage, and winds, blowing high or low, shall voice nature's admiration of that great soldier and sailor lad.

"And this intelligible marker, careless alike to heat and cold, to shine and shadow, shall through the journey down the highway of the years, bear companionate witness to the growing grandeur of the giant tree, under whose branches shall pause for rest, and grateful shade, childhood, youth, maturity and ripened age. Truly, we pass a milestone on this day. We accept this dedication and pledge a kinder reverence for what it has brought into our lives.

"Fifty times have the flowers bloomed in the open air only to bow and droop their heads and die to live again in the sunshine of spring, as you and I must die to live again, since the banding together of a large group of young men of the Grand Army of the Republic.

"None save these and their comrades knew the horrors of war fully. None loved peace and the home reside more than they. These are they who lived over together their memories, cared for those who had borne the conflict, for their widows and for their orphans. These are they who laid their comrades to rest with deserved military honors, and witnessed the tribute, in wreaths and garlands, to their memory on May 30th of each succeeding year. Today very many of these voices are silent—their ranks are thinned.

"Out of gratitude of a younger generation for the heritage their sacrifices left to us, and ours, the prayer that many peaceful days may be granted to those who remain.

"Madam President, members of the W. R. C. and other ladies and gentlemen: You and I pause this afternoon amid the hustle and activity of a wide-awake city and community, by the flow of the inland river, with no fleets of iron, and no marching hosts, but in repose and quiet to honor and pay tribute to that patriotic and gallant organization of our nation's post-war defenders—the Grand Army of the Republic.

Important Mile Stone
This day marks the passing of an important milestone, the celebration of 50 years of the existence of the Grand Army of the Republic, in our midst.

"I am most happy for the privilege of meeting my assignment on this program, representing as I do, not only this assemblage, but in reality, all of the commonwealth of Lee county with her 742 square miles and her 30,000 people.

"I want to compliment and congratulate the membership, past and present, of the local unit of the Woman's Relief Corps for their commendable actuating motive in conceiving and carrying forward to consummation this program of dedication, which will provide a reminder not only of our fellow citizens of today, but to those who follow, of a great and patriotic privilege and duty, met in these yesterday, and today by those who faced suffering, and danger and that last great measure of fidelity and devotion—death itself, when the days were dark, and when the clouds hung low. All honor to these patriotic, noble minded and wholesome women of the Women's Relief Corps for translating their admiration of, and profound regard and respect for the boys who wore the blue, on land and sea, into perpetuity."

Commander George L. Richardson followed with a few remarks of acceptance of the memorial tree and tablet.

Gannon Speaker
City Attorney Martin J. Gannon was the speaker of the afternoon and in his opening, stressed the teachings to be found in Rule 6, of the Grand Army of the Republic ritual, which he quoted as follows:

"To maintain true allegiance to the United States of America, based on a paramount respect for, and fidelity to its constitution and laws, to discountenance whatever tends to weaken loyalty, incite to insurrection, treason, or rebellion, or in any manner impair the efficiency and permanency of our free institutions; and to encourage the spread of universal liberty, equal rights and justice to all men. Soldiers and sailors of the United States Army, navy or marine corps, who served between April 12, 1861 and April 9, 1865, in the war for the suppression of the rebellion, and those having been honorably discharged therefrom, after such service, and of such state regiments as were called into active service and subject to the orders of the United States general officers between the dates mentioned, shall be eligible to membership in the Grand Army of the Republic. No person shall be eligible to membership who has at any time borne arms against the United States."

"Fifty years is but an insignificant point of time in the history of the world, especially if one accepts the geologists' computation of its age, and yet it is perhaps incontrovertible that the past fifty years have been epoch-making and revolutionary, and have contributed further in every direction to the temporal amelioration of man's lot here below, than any similar period of recorded time.

"In 1919 there were about 4,700 posts with a total membership of about 100,000.

"Women's Relief Corps, an organization created by the mothers, wives, daughters and sisters of the Union soldiers of the Civil War, for the purpose of aiding and assisting the Grand Army of the Republic, and to 'perpetuate the memory of our heroic dead' and to 'cherish and emulate the deeds of our army nurses,' and to 'inculcate lessons of patriotism and love of country among our children and in the communities in which we live.'"

First Encampment
"The Grand Army of the Republic, a patriotic organization, in the United States composed of the national veterans of the Civil War was organized in Decatur, Ill., April 6, 1866, by Dr. B. F. Stephenson of Springfield, formerly surgeon of the 14th Illinois Infantry. The establishment of Post No. 1, in Decatur was soon followed by Post No. 2, in Springfield, and in a few months, other posts sprang up in Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri and other states. The first national encampment was held in Indianapolis, Ind. Nov. 20, 1866, with delegates from ten states. General Stephen A. Hurlbut was chosen Commander-in-Chief, and Dr. Stephenson, Adjutant General.

Several Department of Illinois officers, who were guests of the Dixon Corps yesterday were called upon and responded with short talks, congratulating the Dixon Post G. A. R., on its fiftieth anniversary at the Dixon Corps for the fine entertainment and program commemorating the occasion.

Rev. James A. Barnett, pastor of the Christian church pronounced the opening prayer and benediction.

Immediately following the dedication of the memorial tree and tablet marker, the ladies of Dixon Circle to the G. A. R. presented to Lee county the beautiful bench which stands on the lawn in front of the north entrance to the court house. Mrs. Etta Baker, president of the circle introduced Mrs. Viola Strub who read a paper and poem fitting to the occasion and dedicated the seat in honor of Fred A. Richardson, the son of a Civil War veteran, responded briefly, accepting the seat in behalf of the county in his official capacity of custodian of the court house property.

The Dixon Junior Band concluded the program with patriotic selections and then proceeded to the Cledon Confectionery on First street where James Cledon proved a genial host and served the young musicians generous quantities of ice cream.

LAST AMERICAN AT HOYLAKES IS OUT OF EVENT

George Dunlap Beaten In British Amateur Golf Tourney

Hoyle, Eng., June 23—(AP)—George T. Dunlap, Jr., sole American survivor in the British amateur golf championship was eliminated in the semi-final round today 4 and 3 by the veteran British internationalist, Hon. Michael Scott.

The American twice holder of the United States intercollegiate title, held his own with Scott through the first nine holes of the match which they finished all square but failed to win a hole on the incoming route. Scott taking the lead at the 11th to end the match four holes later.

On his way to the semi-final Dunlap defeated several leading golfers of the British Empire, including C. Ross (Sandy) Somerville, Canadian holder of the United States amateur title and Lister Hartley, British Walker Cup star.

The real break in his match with Scott came on the eighth hole, a 42-yarder, where George shot his par 5 only to have Scott sink an eight-yard putt for an eagle 3, to square the match and apparently shake the nerve of the 24-year-old American.

APPORTIONMENT DEAD FOR THIS ASSEMBLY TERM

Senate Sounded the Death
Knell For Bill In Evening Vote

Springfield, Ill., June 23—(AP)—Congressional reapportionment is dead and the sales tax is having trouble again, but the rest of the Horner nine-point legislative program has good prospects of being passed before sine die adjournment next week.

Long hours of work in the hot weather have enabled both houses to make progress in cleaning up their calendars, with indications that all can be completed by a week from today at the latest. Reapportionment's chance ended late yesterday when the Senate refused to pass the Ward proposal for redistricting the state, giving Cook county greater representation. The House bill for congressional reapportionment has been "asleep" in committee for more than a month.

To Amend Bill
Agreement has been reached that the Senate is to amend the Horner utilities control bill by placing a maximum limit on the amount which the Illinois Commerce Commission can assess a company to pay costs of a rate investigation.

Governor Horner appeared again at a caucus of Senate Democrats to urge enactment of the utility bill, which has passed the House. Administration sponsored housing and insurance bills are on third reading in the Senate, ready to be sent to the Governor today. The Chicago Sanitary District bond measure was the first of the Horner bills to pass both houses.
